Asthma is more common in African American children than in white children, although the reason for this is not clear.